OFFICIAL VOTE FOR COUNTY OFFICERS

The county election board concluded its labors last night and their final figure are given below. It will be noted that with the exception of Rit Erwin, who had no opposition, Judge C. O. Barton led the county ticket. With the exception of the sheriff, all county democratic candidates ran ahead of the state ticket, and all republican and socialist nominees ran behind theirs.

OIL PROSPECTS VERY FLATTERING

From all reports about the oil strike at the Sam Steward place, it would probably be a producing well if shot. The drilling has been suspended for a time until heavier machinery can be installed to complete the well and probably nothing further will be done for some time. But a strata of oil sand 55 feet thick would indicate that this was in the oil belt and it won't be long until the proposition is developed. We always have believed in the theory that there was oil in this section, and the proof is forthcoming.—Roff Eagle.

New York Senatorial Fight.

New York, Nov. 10.—Judge Alton B. Parker authorized the following statement tonight:

"I am not unappreciative of the fact that many good people favor my selection as a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Depew. I am most grateful to them for suggesting a most attractive opportunity for useful public service, but my obligations are such that I would not accept the office, even if should it be tendered to me."

Edward M. Sheppard, democrat, will be one of the leading candidates for United States senator to succeed Chauncey M. Depew, whose fifty-four years of public life practically ceased election night when a democratic legislature was elected. Movement to bring that about will be launched in a few days by independent democrats particularly members of the democratic league. It is not unlikely that he will have the support of Governor-elect Dix, who supported Mr. Sheppard's candidacy for governor until the nomination was forced up himself. Mr. Sheppard refused yesterday to discuss the matter, but his friends let it be known that he would consider his election to the senatorship a great honor. He has received many letters urging him for the place. D. Cady Herrick is another man who has been mentioned and who admits quite frankly that he would like to go to Washington.

DR. TERHUNE'S LECTURE MOST EXCELLENT

Last evening Dr. T. B. Terhune of Huntington, Ind., delivered his lecture on the subject "The Fine Art of Living." It was everything anyone could expect. The speaker is a deep thinker and gifted with the power to make his thought clear to his hearers.

He took up life as a problem, dealing with its various phases, more especially with heredity and environment. He is a strong exponent of the doctrine of Shakespeare that "men are at sometime masters of their fate," and that "the fault is not in 'ur stars but in ourselves that we are underlings." He does not place much confidence in the doctrine of heredity nor environment. Speaking of the latter he very sensibly suggests that if environment is unfavorable, the man with even the germs of a successful career in his makeup will simply seek one that is favorable, the power to recognize congenial environment being a strong factor in a man's success in life.

The subject for the lecture this evening will be: "The Old Book in the New Era." Those who heard him last evening were well pleased and the audience this evening will doubtless be much increased over the one last evening.

Four Women Legislators.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 10.—Four women will sit in the Eighteen General Assembly of Colorado as a result of Tuesday's election. They are Alma Lafferty, Louise U. Jones and Louise M. Kerwin, all elected representatives from Denver districts on the democratic ticket, and Agnes Riddle, republican, representing Adams, Arapaho and Elbert counties.

In the last General Assembly Mrs. Lafferty, who was re-elected, was the only woman representative. There are no women senators.

Oregon Seems Democratic.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 10.—As belated returns from Tuesday's election continue to come in, the election of Oswald West (dem.) to be governor becomes almost a certainty. His majority over Jay Bowerman (rep.) will approximate 3,000. The proposed constitutional amendment permitting women to vote was defeated.

The constitutional amendment prohibiting the sale of liquors seems to have been defeated.

MORE FIGURES ON ELECTION

STATE REMAINS DRY BY 20,000, ACCORDING TO LATE RETURNS.

MARSHALL COUNTY CLOSE

Both Sides Are Claiming Majority of Legislature.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Nov. 10.—Official and unofficial reports to the Anti-Saloon League and the State election board indicate that Oklahoma will remain in the dry column by approximately 20,000 majority of the votes cast yes and no. Secretary Corbin of the Election Board says the local option and high-license amendment will be short 50,000. The board has received but three counties officially. McLain went 267 dry, Rogers 131 dry and Grady 51 dry.

Reports to the Anti-Saloon League give these counties officially dry: Jackson 1,259, Bryan 954, Custer 1-429, Garfield 812, Muskogee 176, Craig 450. Officially reported to be wet: Washington 307. Probably wet: Carter 250, Creek 700, Coal 900 and Jefferson 137. Thirty-two other counties are claimed by the league to be dry. Among them Logan by one vote, making forty-six counties heard from and showing an estimated dry majority of 19,500.

Twenty-nine of the remaining counties went wet three years ago by a total of 500 and two of them—Harmon and Swanson—have never before voted upon prohibition.

"Our reports are from thoroughly reliable sources," said Secretary Corbin of the league tonight, "and with what we have in hand, also the unusual gains we are showing, leads us to estimate the dry majority at 25,000."

The few returns reported at the local option headquarters today were scattering precinct votes in twenty-two counties and they show a wet majority of 2,287. The local option managers do not concede defeat of their proposition. Returns to the democratic state headquarters are largely unofficial, but about two-thirds of the counties are estimated to have given Cruce (dem.) 41,810 plurality and McNeal (rep.) 6,050 plurality, showing the former leading by 35,760. In numerous instances, however, the figures are admittedly excessive and the probable Cruce plurality is conservatively estimated to be nearer 20,000 or 25,000.

KITCHEN CABINETS $5.00

The official vote of McClain county on governor received by the state election board was: Cruce 1,292, McNeal 671, Cumble (socialist) 321, Rouche (pro.) 23. Payne county goes to McNeal by 135, while Cruce gets Greer by 955, Grady by 1,199 and Rogers by 443.

A report current here tonight that the republican state organization has conceded the election of Cruce can not be confirmed.

At the socialist headquarters there was an air of enthusiasm over telephonic reports from Madill saying the Socialists had elected the sheriff in Marshall county, and probably two county commissioners and the county attorney.

This is the first instance of a Socialist victory for any office in Oklahoma higher than Justice of the Peace. The Marshall county vote of 406 two years ago is reported to have enlarged to 600. Secretary Branstetter of the committee has compiled reports from southern and southwestern counties showing a total socialist vote of 3,175 a gain of 317.

"The party has made gains in Pottawatomie, Murray, Stephens, Comanche, Kiowa, Payne, Beckham and Pushmataha, not included in the eleven counties given," said Secretary Branstetter, "reassuring us of 28,000 or 30,000 votes as against 22,000 two years ago. We claim that we are not getting our full count."

A reliable poll of the next senate shows the republicans will have thirteen out of forty-four, a gain of three. This leaves the democrats with but thirty-one, or one vote more than that required to pass any emergency legislation.

The defeat of Clarence Davis, one of the authorities of the present election and anti-trust laws in the Sapulpa district; Frank Casteel in the Texas-Cimmaron-Beaver-Harper county district, and Brazell in the Osage-Kay county district afforded the republicans glee. The Oklahoma City district is still in doubt.

Managers of both parties are doing some hard figuring on the next house. George H. Dodson, secretary of the republican state committee, came from Guthrie tonight with estimates showing the republicans had elected sixty-three of the 109 members, a gain of nineteen seats, or a house majority of eight. It requires 72 votes to pass emergency acts. Dodson claims republicans have entered every representative in the first and second congressional districts save in Pawnee and Woods counties.

On the contrary, democrats claim after checking, they have from seventy to seventy-five in the house. Chairman Branson of the state committee places it as high as eighty-five and asserts that democrats have been elected from every county in former Indian Territory save Creek and possibly Adair.

FOUL MURDER AT ALVA

Alva, Okla., Nov. 10.—With the finding of the dead body of pretty Mabel Oakes, 23-year-old daughter of a well-to-do family here, in the rear of the old opera house block, with a silk scarf tightly wound about the neck late Wednesday, the most sensational murder in recent months was uncovered. The girl had been employed for several months as a clerk in the office of N. L. Miller, justice of the peace. Miller's office is in the front part of the building in which the body was discovered.

The girl had failed to go home for noonday lunch, and late in the afternoon the father had started for Miller's office to ascertain the cause of her absence. He was met at the door by Miller, who, with ashen face, told him he had just discovered the body. The police were immediately notified and Miller was arrested and lodged in jail.

Physicians stated after an examination that the girl was about to become a mother.

Miller denies all knowledge of the crime or that he had ever had improper relations with her. At the inquest Thursday physicians testified that death was due to strangulation.

The greatest feeling has been aroused by the murder, and officers fear summary justice may be wreaked if the inquest establishes the identity of the murderer.

HOW THE OKLAHOMAN FIGURES IT OUT

From the Oklahoman.

With full returns from about sixty counties, and incomplete returns from four or five more, Lee Cruce is leading J. W. McNeal for governor by a majority of 23,387.

With about forty-five complete counties on the prohibition amendment, and a few scattering results, the "drys" are leading by a majority of 18,747.

Morgan is ahead of Fulton in the race for congress in the Second district by a majority of 735.

It is practically definitely settled that Bird S. McGuire is elected to congress in the First district, James S. Davenport over Charles E. Creager in the Third, Carter in the Fourth and Scott Ferris over J. H. Franklin in the Fifth.

Despite the fact that the republicans are issuing reports tending to show that they will control the next state legislature, reports which have come in from over the state prove almost beyond a shadow of a doubt that the democrats will have a majority in both houses.

The democratic committee declares that their figures show that the next senate will contain thirty-two democrats, and the next house eighty-five democrats, giving them a two-thirds majority in each house.

The chief political bone of contention at present is the local option amendment, but, judging from the returns in, nothing short of a figurative earthquake can save the amendment from utter defeat.

Additional returns received Thursday but tended to increase the plurality by which the drys are leading. Washita county returned a majority of 1,086 against the bill. Grant came in the same column with 1,316, and other counties followed with majorities along the same line.

Despite the claim of the local optionists they appear to be able to offer no tangible figures which show that there is any reason on their side. In a telephone dispatch to the Muskogee Phoenix Thursday night they stated that returns from twenty-five counties put them 8,000 in the lead, and that they were counting on that majority being swelled considerably by the counties still out.

As a matter of fact, of the forty-eight or fifty counties which have been reported to the Daily Oklahoman the local optionists have carried only twelve. Their total majority in these twelve counties, exclusive of the vote in counties where the plurality was against the amendment, is only 4,155.

Putting Cruce's majority conservatively, in view of the number of counties to report, he will receive between 28,000 and 30,000, though the chances are that it will run above the last figure.

An analysis of the vote at Roff and surrounding boxes on the liquor amendment would indicate that the people did not like the amendment as submitted. While the amendment carried it this end of the county
 by a small majority, and the vote was close all over the county, the only objection urged was that the bill was not a local option bill and that it contained many defects. The Eagle believes in majority rule, and as a great many people have said by voting for the retention of the prohibitory law, and all these that voted for the amendment said that they preferred a change from bootleggers, the Eagle will do everything in its power to help the officers in the enforcement of the law, and make Pontotoc county dry in reality. The editor does not believe in prohibition. We are strictly for local option at all times.
 We believe that is the best prohibition ever discovered. But we are unalterably opposed to law violation,
 and selling whisky contrary to law
 is anarchy. We believe the present agitation has resulted in solidifying
 the people in demanding that the law be enforced, and if public sentiment is behind a law it can and will be enforced. What do you say, Mr. Voter? Shall the law be obeyed and carried out as expressed by the will of the voters? Roff Eagle.

It is our notion that anarchists are born oftener than made. We have all seen men who from their youth rebel against all authority and any kind of restraint. They have no regard for the rights of others, and seem surprised to find that their fellow men will not tamely submit to their claim of immunity from all restraint. They regard every man as their enemy and their whole lives are spent in warfare against the legally constituted authorities. They look upon all laws intended to curb a man's desire to disregard the rights of others as being made to persecute them and harass them and which should be resisted accordingly. With them the man who can successfully escape the penalty of his wrong doing, is a hero.
 These men are not always called anarchists, but that is what they really are. They failed to learn the great lesson of obedience either in the home or the school, and nothing remains but to learn it in the courts of the land.

The most reliable early news we received of the result of the Oklahoma election was found, not on the front page of any big daily but in the first editorial column of the State Capital of Wednesday morning. The front page of that sheet claimed the state for McNeal, but the first editorial column, which from time out of memory has been devoted to Haskell and the rascally democrats, contained an editorial on the development of the South. The election news was not giving Greer much consolation and he was evidently trying to turn the subject of conversation to some other channel.

A year passes in a hurry, and often when we present a subscription account the subscriber is surprised that the fifty cents he paid two years ago did not stretch itself over the entire time to the present day. Even when they are perfectly honest, they seem to forget how rapidly time flies and complain that they think we have made a mistake on their bill. The News is very careful at all times and seldom makes an error in a subscription account.

The State Capital has given it up.
 It says the democrats are stealing everything in sight. Four more years of hard times for the Capital. No state printing contracts except by open bidding.

Woman suffrage lost in Oklahoma
 by a heavy majority, but won out in Washington. The question arises, which set of men is the more gallant, the Oklahomans or the Washingtonians.

At any rate since the socialists
 have elected just one congressman,
 there will be no charges of bolting the decision of the caucus. He will be the whole caucus himself.

The State Capital and other standpat republicans say it's all Teddy's fault.

WONDERS ALONG NEW RAILROAD.
 At many points on the line of the new Western Pacific railroad from Salt Lake City to San Francisco there was not room enough in the canyon for both river and railroad, and solid walls of masonry had to be built to carry the tracks above the stream. At other points the sharp curves in the canyon have sent the tracks back and forth from one side to the other on steel bridges and high trestles. In building the line, material and workmen frequently had to be let down the sides of the canyon by ropes hundreds of feet in length to start construction of new sections. Wagon roads are everywhere impossible. At last, after endless turnings and twists in fighting its way through 150 miles of the canyon, the tracks come out into the broad valley at Oroville, over which for countless ages the Feather river has poured debris from its mountain fastness. So much gold did the river bring down that the soil down to the solid bedrock is being dug up by dredges and washed for its gold.
 Beautiful orange orchards, large tracts of land given over to olives and other fruits are now being torn to pieces in the ceaseless hunt for gold. That metal is being found in such quantities in the debris of ages from the Feather river that the miners are beginning to rival in their wealth the pioneers in the gold fields
 of the state.

In startling contrast to this long stretch of canyon scenery is the great salt desert through which the new road runs after leaving Salt Lake City. This desert is sixty miles long and fifteen miles wide, composed of rock salt 97 per cent pure.

Right through the center of it the engineers of the road ran their lines
 and for forty-six miles there is not a curve in the tracks. The ties are laid on a bed of solid salt, two or three feet above the level of the plain.
 The salt looks like a field of ice and snow, and it is difficult for the traveler to realize that his train is not passing through a wintry scene of the Far North.

A doctor's first question when con-

SONG OF A PAIR OF SHOES.

Twenty little beds in rows of ten,
 Twenty little roly poly men,
 Little black men go to bed by day—
 I must put them in and make them stay.

Naughty little black man,
 Go to bed I say!
 Deary me, there you see—
 Now he's run away—
 On the floor, by the door,
 See him try to hide,
 All the other black men
 Sleeping side by side.

Twenty little beds in rows of ten,
 Only nineteen roly poly men,
 I've a little bed to spare today,
 Naughty little man to run away!

Naughty little black man
 Left an empty space!
 Never mind, he will find
 Some one takes his place.
 Nurse has got quite a lot
 Like the ones I lose—
 Little roly black man,
 Buttons on my shoes.

OLD BOOKS FOR CHILDREN

Writing Was Covered With Sheet of Horn to Protect Lettering From Dirty Fingers.

The earliest English book for children was "The Babes' Book, or a Lyttl Report of How Young People Should Behave." The horn books existed in Elizabeth's reign. The writing was covered with a sheet of horn in order to protect the lettering from contact with dirty fingers.

The chap book contained most of the familiar nursery rhymes and stories which have appertained to nursery lore for generations. They exhibit very crude woodcuts, often daubed with inappropriate color, and the commonest paper as a rule was used.
 They were hawked about by the chap-men or pedlar and cost only a few pence apiece.

They served to perpetuate such familiar ditties as "Sing a Song of Sixpence," which dates from the sixteenth century; "Three Blind Mice," in use, with music, in 1609; "The Frog and the Mouse," in existence in 1580; and "Girls and Boys Come Out to Play," which was sung by the villagers in the time of Charles II.;
 "Little Jack Horner," we know, is older than the seventeenth century;
 and last but not least, "Lucy Lockett,"
 the tune from which originated "Yankee Doodle."

A few of what were called "battledore books" have been handed down to us. They were three leaved cards which were folded up into oblong pocket shaped pieces. These taught reading and numerals in the dame schools in town and country. The little gilt books, as they were called,
 adorned on the outside with gilt Dutch paper colored flowers, were much prized gift books of that period.

According to the Queen, children
 were employed coloring such picture books by hand, one child doing all the red in the series of illustrations, another all the blue, and so on. Of course they gained precision by repetition, but we very often find the tints overlapping, as if carried out by an inexperienced hand.

WORKING TWENTY-ONE RULE

Young Man Thought He Could Do as He Pleased, but Found Out
 Father Could, Too.

Old Jacob Weatherly is a man of extreme regularity, and on the principle that "Early to bed," etc., is the best guiding rule for a household, he insists that everyone under his roof and authority shall retire at 9:30. As may be readily understood, this rule sometimes proved irksome to the younger members of the family, especially Charles.

Recently, however, Charles reached man's estate, and on his birthday Jacob gave him a blessing.

"I have no longer any authority over you," he said; "now that you are 21 you must act as pleases you best."
 On the following Saturday evening, therefore, Charles returned home at 11:15 p. m., and rapped at the door.

"Who's that?" said Jacob from the window.

"Charles," replied his son.

"But why do you come home at this hour? Don't you know we lock up at 9:30?"

"Yes," remonstrated the youth; "but I'm gone 21 now, and can do as I please."

"Quite so," said the old man; "but so can I."

And the window went down with a bang, and Charles was left to face the stark fact that 21 worked two ways.

A Princess' Prank.

Queen Maud of Norway has always been the humorist of the royal family.
 When younger she was very fond of a practical joke. One of her efforts in this direction took place at a cattle
 show in the immediate neighborhood of Sandringham. Accompanied by the prince of Wales and other members of her family, Princess Maud, as she then was, went toward a pen where a large crowd had collected around one of the king's prize bulls. Suddenly intense commotion took place, for the animal commenced to plunge and something like a stampede took place among the onlookers. It transpired subsequently that the princess had been prodding
 the animal with her parasol.

Good revivals; increase in Sunday school attendance; a live missionary spirit; four new missionaries being provided for by district.

On Selecting a Wife.

The father of the great astronomer, Simon Newcomb, went about selecting a wife in a very scientific manner, says his sister in an article in McClure's. He let Combe and Gall determine his proper age for him to marry, which was 25 and about 19 for the girl.

He must have the counterpart of himself or a wife, and so he took a detailed account of all the points of his physical and physical make-up. His hair, his eyes, his nose, his height, his weight, his temper, his movements his voice were all carefully set down, and then he set about to find a girl who possessed the opposites. He probably went upon the doctrine expressed by Carlyle, to the effect: "Spiritual music can only come from discords set in unison."

He went into the country and visited farm after farm to find his counterpart. When he discovered a likely maid, he would stay there a day or two to inspect more closely her style and habits. He found several that arrested his attention and held it for awhile, when some defect of disposition or manner would appear, and forthwith he would leave. Untidiness, carelessness, wastefulness, indolence, bad temper, one or more of these, he found always, and so he kept on searching.

That is a poor way to get a wife. A far better plan is trust to heaven to make the matches, which has way of taking a little incident, a voice a grace and twisting it round into a love match and a wedding. This systematic choosing and long designing take the tint and tang out of a love match. It reduces the wooing to an ordinary state affair like packing a trunk or getting a tooth filled. Don't trust to science—let Heaven do it.—Ohio State Journal.

ORDER RESTORED IN MEXICO CITY

Mexico City, Nov. 10.—Repressive measures adopted by the Mexican authorities, prevented today a repetition of yesterday's scenes in this city and resulted in a day of comparative tranquillity. An attempt by the demonstrators to gather late this afternoon in the neighborhood of the new national theater, was discouraged by the mounted police, who kept the crowds moving.

The foreign office has assured Ambassador Wilson that there will be no repetition of the rioting. Strict orders have been given the police, Minister Creel said, to prevent, by vigorous measures if necessary, gatherings of any description in the streets.

Visits were exchanged between Minister Creel and the American ambassador during the day and a verbal reply was given by the former to Mr. Wilson's urgent message of yesterday concerning the insult to the United States flag and to American citizens. What the nature of the reply was, Mr. Wilson declined to say, but intimated that the same, when put into writing and formally translated, would show a proper attitude on the part of the Mexican government.

Assurances also were given that several newspapers, whose utterances have incited into riots, will be suppressed. One of the latter, El Pais, today printed a suggestion for a boycott throughout the republic.

Another, El Diario del Hogar, published a cartoon depicting the Mexican people clubbing Uncle Sam, while in the background was pictured the burning of Rodriguez at Rock Springs, Tex.

These papers are of limited circulation and ordinarily wield but small influence.

Ambassador Wilson was warmly congratulated by business men and others of the American colony personally and by letter today for the aggressive stand he has taken in the crisis.

Reports which have reached City of Mexico from the United States that an attempt had been made upon the life of the ambassador were without any foundation in fact.

Branson Issues Proclamation.

Oklahoma City, Nov. 10, 1910. To All Election Officers of the State of Oklahoma:

As set forth in my statement last week certain federal officials were at that time undertaking to intimidate the election officers of the state of Oklahoma to prevent their performing their full duty under the law. This accomplished their diabolical purpose in many counties of the state and as a result the ballot box in many localities has been crammed with an untold number of illegal ballots. In other localities, however, the election officers had high regard for their duty and enforced the law. They are to be highly commended. In some of such localities in order to prevent a legal election being held for state and county officers, the election officers were arrested in accordance with the letter of John Embury, and O. K'd by a man by the name of Frank Lee. All such election officers are advised that the state democratic central committee has employed counsel to represent them and will pay the expenses of the same, and all such are requested to notify me at the earliest possible moment. Very respectfully,

FRED P. BRANSON,

Chairman State Democratic Central Committee.

In addition the plans presented on the first of the month at the regular meeting by the county architects, Winkler and McDonald, will be approved by the board.

The bids for the construction of the county building and jail will be opened on December 12, according to the plans of the commissioners. The architects have been instructed to prepare the advertisements for the bids, which will be published Thursday, according to the plans of the commissioners.

This morning Dr. Terhune, the noted lecturer, conducted the chapel exercises at the normal. He delivered a short talk along the line taken in last night's lecture, urging each pupil to live his own life without attempting to imitate anyone. The talk was filled with little stories illustrating his points. The school was delighted with his address and invited him to return tomorrow, an invitation he will probably accept.

Interesting Guardianship Case.

This morning a guardianship case came before Judge Barton that promised to be a very hotly contested. Ruby Condren aged 14, was the principal. She is an orphan and since the death of her parents has lived with her uncle, Pink Condren, at Frisco. Another Uncle, Jno. Conren sought to be appointed guardian in place of his brother. Both sides came to town with a long list of witnesses and both were represented by counsel, J. F. McKeel appearing for the plaintiff and Duke Stone for the defense. Judge Barton very sensibly concluded that the testimony of the child herself was worth more than that of the whole array of witnesses, so excluding from the room everyone except her and the attorneys, he asked her to tell exactly how matters stood and that, too, without any question or interruptions by the attorneys. After getting the facts, he then put the girl on the stand in the court room and she repeated under oath what she had already told. He then stated that he was ready to hear any other witnesses or argument the attorneys might have, but that his mind was already made up, for the girl had told a very straightforward story. Neither side expressed any desire to go further with the case, and the judge decided that the child was in good hands already and refused to make any change of her guardians.

Roff Cotton Receipts.

The Roff gins up to date have ginned nearly 3,000 bales of cotton as compared with about 1,000 last year. Cotton from other sources has run the total of receipts well up toward the 4,000 mark with the probability of the cotton shipped from this place this year reaching the 5,000 mark. The cotton is practically in from every quarter now except some southeast of town and that on account of late rains which caused the cotton to be backward about opening.—Eagle.

Methodist Conference Opens.

Ardmore, Ok., Nov. 10.—The sixty-fifth session of the Oklahoma annual conference of the M. E. church, South, convened here this morning with Bishop Denny presiding. T. M. Sweet of Lawton was chosen secretary and a corps of clerks for the vast amount of work was appointed. The arrival this afternoon of more than a score of full-blood Indian preachers added much interest to the conference. All of them are bright, intelligent men, and preach to their congregations in both the English and Indian languages.

At the roll call almost the entire membership answered present. The only death report was that of C. M. Coppedge, presiding elder of the Chickasha-Chickaw district. One of the day's features were the reports of the presiding elders. Dr. Goddard of the Muskogee district made a new record, having reported every assessment paid in full. The report on question of division of the conference was made a special order for tomorrow. Many delegates claim to have come a long distance at great expense and the sentiment tonight seems to favor division.

The question of the ordination of deacons comes tomorrow. The Muskogee district reported 1900 new members, McAlester district 1400 new members, Mangum district 1600, Chickasha district 800. Other districts reported church built, increase in Sunday school attendance and there is a general advancement in the work.

The full-blood Indian districts made encouraging reports. Governor Lee Cruce was invited to address the conference Monday morning at 10 o'clock and has accepted. The annual missionary services are being held tonight.

McNeal Concedes Nothing.

Guthrie, Ok., Nov. 10.—Joseph W. McNeal, republican candidate for governor, tonight refuses to concede the election of Lee Cruce for governor, declaring the returns show the vote so close that the final returns may tell a different story. Final returns today show Bird S. McGuire, republican, is the nominee, for congress in this district and will have at least 2,300 majority over Neal McNeil, democrat.

McGuire lost Pawnee county by 10 votes, Grant by 11, Osage by 159 and Payne by less than 50, but carried all other six counties. In Logan, this county, the entire county, and legislative ticket was elected, excepting sheriff, Bart Murphy, democrat, winning over William H. Mitchell, a rough rider, by a small margin.

In an official opinion, given by Attorney General West today, to members of election boards, he held no precincts can be thrown out unless the face of the returns show gross frauds. It is reported tonight that attempts would be made to declare null and void the election in all precincts where negroes voted Tuesday.

Col. Henry A. Braun, formerly of St. Louis, and member of the executive committee of the local option organization, tonight claims prohibition is defeated in the state by 25,000 majority.

Carter's Majority 14,000.

Ardmore, Ok., Nov. 10.—The majority of Carter, Democrat, over Campbell, Republican, will be from 13,000 to 15,000 in the Fourth Congressional District.

Little Change in Cotton.

Cotton held up most of the day to about the same figures as yesterday, about 14 1-8 here, but late in the afternoon dropped off a few points.

Stage Fright.

The curtain rose for the first act of "Thrilling Dangers," a three-act drama, which was about to be produced before a large audience in one of Manayunk's small theaters.

"Now, Swiftly," said the stage manager to a keen and ardent young amateur, "it is your turn to go on the stage. All you have to say when the pistol is fired by the villain, is 'Hark, 'tis the pistol.' You have no other words at all. Now, my boy, do yourself proud."

With these words from the stage manager "Swiftly" stalked toward the stage. Likewise, the villain entered.

"Swiftly" stood in the wings petrified with stage fright. The sharp and constrained crash of a pistol shot smote upon his ears.

"Good heavens!" he cried, rushing on the stage, "what's that?"

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY

Tribute That Ended a Famous Jacksonian Enmity.

Thomas H. Benton Could Not Afford to Remain Estranged From General After Latter's Praise of Henry Clay.

BY E. J. EDWARDS.

One very warm evening in July, 1881, several members of President Garfield's cabinet went from the White House to the lawn and stood a while in such a position that they were able to catch the cooling breeze that came from the Potomac. There were two or three friends with them, and all were in a happier frame of mind than they had been for some time, for the physicians had reported but a short while before that the president was in a more comfortable condition than at any time since he had been shot.

As they stood thus, enjoying the cool breeze, Mr. Blaine, the secretary of state, who wore a very thin and somewhat frayed alpaca coat and a straw hat which had certainly seen service for several summers, turned to his companions.

"This afternoon, as I stood before the fireplace in the president's room, there came to my mind for the first time in years an anecdote—or, rather, two anecdotes—of Andrew Jackson that I heard on good authority when I first came to Washington," he began. "But before I tell them to you as they were told to me I shall remind you of the fact that an intense animosity characterized the relations that existed between Jackson and Henry Clay. It was one of the rare cases in which Clay permitted himself to have a personal animosity, though frequently, as we all know, he would be a man's political enemy to the full limit of his powers."

"Well, one day, a friend, calling upon President Jackson, remarked in the course of the conversation: 'Henry Clay is not only a moral coward; he is a physical coward, as well.'"

"Thereupon Jackson got up, knocked the ashes out of his cornucopia pipe into the presidential fireplace, straightened up to his full height, and retorted:

"By God, you wrong him! The d—d scoundrel is as brave as a lion. I know his weakness and his strength."

"Now, for many years Thomas H. Benton, for thirty successive years senator from Missouri, beginning in 1820, and Andrew Jackson had been bitter enemies, although they were of the same party. They had not spoken since 1813, I believe, when Benton was thrown downstairs at the time when his brother put a bullet through Jackson's shoulder down in North Carolina. At any rate, Benton had not visited the white house since Jackson had been its chief occupant. But it so happened that a day or two after President Jackson had paid his characteristic tribute to Clay's bravery, the man to whom Jackson had delivered the tribute met Benton and told him of the incident. Benton, clearly astonished for an instant, eagerly asked if his informant was sure that Jackson had made the remark as quoted, and the reply was that there was no doubt about it.

"Then I will call upon him myself," said Benton, with grim determination.

"Sure enough, a day or two later the senior senator from Missouri presented himself at the white house and his name was taken into his old enemy. In a moment he was admitted to the president's private office. Jackson was standing before the fireplace. He looked searchingly at Benton, who remained standing upon the threshold. At last Jackson spoke. 'Is it to be war or peace?' he asked.

"For answer, Benton, with both hands outstretched, went across the room, the next moment the differences of years were healed, and the friendship thus unexpectedly and suddenly re-established remained unbroken until Jackson's death, Benton becoming Jackson's lieutenant in many things on the floor of the senate.

"But to my mind," concluded Mr. Blaine, "the best part of the reconciliation of those two great characters lay in the reply that Benton gave to his friends when they asked him how he came to put aside his enmity toward Andrew Jackson. 'I could not afford to remain estranged from a man who was brave enough to pay such a tribute to an enemy as Andrew Jackson did to Henry Clay when he declared he was as brave as a lion,' said Senator Benton."

America's Oldest Theaters.

Theaters, as a rule, are long lived, and the two oldest playhouses in America are the Walnut street theater, Philadelphia, and the Savannah theater, Savannah, Ga. Despite the fact that so many new theaters have been built in New York in the last decade only five of the old ones have been eliminated—the Star, the Madison Square, the Manhattan, the Princess and the Koster & Bial music hall on Thirty-fourth street. It has often been said that Daly's Bijou and Wallack's were also destined for the discard, but they continue to defy time and conditions undaunted. Wallack's is the only unfinished theater in New York, as the outer buildings were never carried above the second story, although the original plans called for a handsome office building. When it was discovered that the necessary outlay of money was not justified by the probable revenue, the structure was abruptly terminated at the second story.
